West led the jack of diamonds and East won with the queen and switched to the ten of clubs, declarer's queen losing to the king. West returned a trump, but declarer could take two rounds ending in dummy before trying the heart finesse for an overtrick - +620.

In the other room NS overreached to 6♠, resulting in -200 and a loss of 13 IMPs.

North led the four of spades and South won with the king and returned the nine, North ducking declarer's queen. When the clubs broke declarer was assured of nine tricks. He cashed a top heart before playing off the clubs and North was under pressure, eventually discarding a diamond, a heart and a spade. Declarer was now in a position to score a couple of overtricks - a heart to the king drops North's queen and then the jack of hearts forces a spade discard when North can be thrown in with a spade to lead into the split diamond tenace. When declarer took the heart finesse he was held to nine tricks.

In the other room EW stopped in 2NT, scoring +150 and losing 10 IMPs.

West led the six of diamonds and declarer won with dummy's ace, played a club to the ace, cashed the ace of spades pitching a heart, ruffed a spade, cashed the top hearts, ruffed a heart with the jack of clubs, ruffed a diamond high and cashed the king of clubs, claiming all the tricks when the outstanding trumps divided, +940.

In the other room NS reached 6NT.

That looks tricky, but on a diamond lead declarer wins with dummy's ace, comes to hand with a club, cashes a top heart, goes back to dummy with a club and plays a heart. When the queen appears declarer wins and cashes the rest of the clubs. West has to keep his hearts and is thrown in on the fourth round of the suit to lead into the spade tenace - +990 and 2 somewhat fortuitous IMPs.

I'm not quite sure about the meaning of the bids in the latter part of the auction - it's possible that 4NT was Turbo, showing an even number of key cards.

In the other room NS stopped in 5♠ which cost them 12 IMPs.

When East failed to double 3♠ West naturally led a diamond and declarer had ten tricks, +630.

In the other room EW were allowed to play peacefully in 5♦, two down, -100 but worth 11 IMPs.

-4 Doubled!

N/S must defeat the contract by four tricks if they are to avoid a poor score.

South led the ace of hearts and continued with ace king and another club won by North with his queen.

N/S must prevent East from making two diamond tricks, so, North now leads a diamond to the ten and queen which is ducked. South plays a small heart to North's queen who then perseveres with another diamond setting up a trick in that suit.

Declarer will now be held to the ace of diamonds and three trump tricks.
