

WELCOME TO MADEIRA 2009

12th International Bridge Festival Madeira Funchal, November 2-8, 2009

Welcome to Madeira!

Welcome to this wonderful island. This year you will be able to enjoy some of Madeira's attractions, good weather and, as if that wasn't enough, some bridge.

We'll have a cocktail on a Wine Lodge, a typical dinner on a fortress, boat tours, land tours and the prize-giving dinner by the pool.

We will also have fully duplicated boards for our Teams' Tournament so that you can compare your results and discuss with anybody all that you could have done, should have done, but ended up by doing something else.

Enjoy your week and see you at the welcome cocktail on Monday at 6:00 pm - Beware! This year the Welcome Cocktail is at the Madeira Wine S. Francisco Lodge, not at the Hotel.

Photo Finish

By Rodrigo Martins Soares

Last year's team event went right to the wire. The Baleal Team was entering the last round with what seemed a comfortable lead of 18 V. P.'s. However the pressure of being on Table 1 for a long time, combined with the natural fatigue after a long week at the table made for some uncharacteristical mistakes.

When the last board came to the table the Red Devils were leading by 23 imps. At the BBO VuGraph we could see that NS had bid and made 4♠ on this one. Quickly we figured out that the Portuguese team needed to match this result or the Icelanders would win the match by 25-5 giving them the tournament victory.

West led the ♦J.

This is how it went at the table:

South won in hand with the Ace and played a Heart to the Ace. He now played dummy's singleton Club where West naturally went in with the ace. Holding up a doubleton Ace smoothly when there's a singleton in dummy is not that easy, although it might have worked out well on this particular lay-out. He returned another Diamond. Now was time for declarer to tackle trumps. What's the best way? At the table a Spade went to the Queen that held the trick, East dropping his ten. (As the cards lie running the ♠J would have worked better as declarer could then run the ♠7 and pick up the trumps for no loss. We will go back to this subject later.) Declarer now ruffed a low Club and played the ♠J, covered by King and Ace, West discarding a Diamond. But now when South tried to cash his Club King East was able to ruff and play the established 9 of trumps. A Heart was now played to dummy and down one meant the title went to the Red Devils. Over 1000 people watched this dramatic ending live on the BBO as David Bird was commenting on site. Emotions were running high by now.

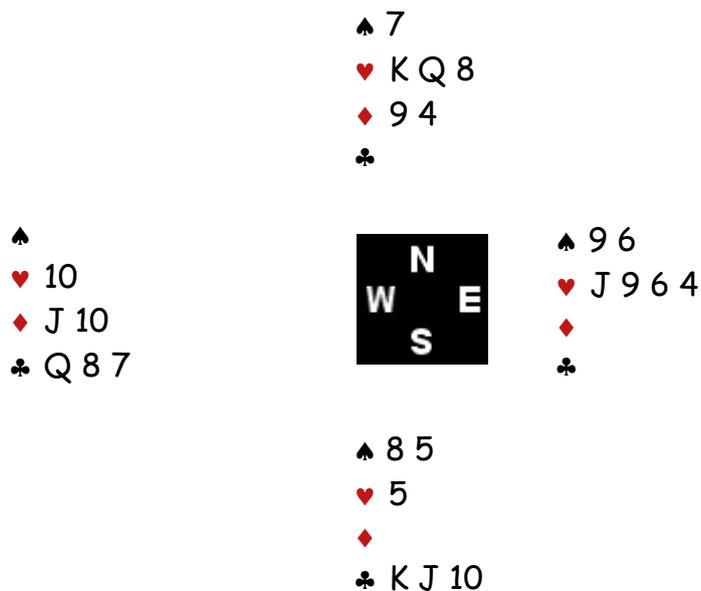

Some time has passed (almost a year) so we may now coolly look at this last sprint. Should declarer have done better? Certainly. But how?

Let's first look at the trump position. At the time declarer tackled trumps Clubs had been played so he could count on 6 top tricks - 3 Hearts, 2 Diamonds and the King of Clubs. He needed only four tricks in trumps to go with them. If he could ruff a Club in dummy he would then only need to pick up the rest of the trumps losing only one trick. According to J. M. Roudinesco the best way to make sure of 3 tricks is to run the Jack followed by cashing the Ace if it loses (losing 2 tricks only 18,92% of the time). Playing to the Queen will give you more tricks on the long run (you make four tricks much more often) but will lose you 2 tricks 23,70% of the time. So, was this where declarer went wrong? I don't think so. The difference between the two lines is, on this particular board, made up by the fact you could be overruffed in Clubs by both opponents. Besides, if it weren't for the fact that he had to ruff a Club declarer would still have lost only a trump trick after the ten had fell. He only needed to play a trump to the jack and finesse the 9 later. The problem was that if he did that he would lose the entry to South's hand. This is the position after finessing the ♠Q:

If declarer played a Spade to the Jack East would be able to win with the King and play a Heart. Now declarer would have to finesse in trumps but if he cashes the Ace he loses control and West will make his Diamond tricks. If he tries to ruff a Club East will over ruff and play his last trump leaving declarer one trick short.

But still that wasn't where I think declarer went down. He did it after knowing that trumps were 4-1. From the above position he played a small Club ruffed and led the ♠J reaching this position:

It was when the ♣King was played that declarer went down. East was able to ruff small and remove dummy's last trump. Had South played Hearts first he could have cashed his two Heart tricks and ruffed a Heart (or Diamond) with the ♠5. Now he just ruffs a Club with the ♠7 and when East overruffs declarer makes his tenth trick with the ♠8. Note that had the Hearts and Clubs been reversed he would still had prevailed. Now the ♥Q would be ruffed, but he could overruff, cash the ♣K and ruff a Club for his tenth trick (East having to follow suit).

It would still have been a photo finish, but the final ruling would have been reversed.
