

22nd Madeira International Bridge Open

4th-10th November 2019

Thursday 7th November

Bulletin 3

The O Lagar Hosts 120 Bridge Players

After two of the three sessions of the Open Pairs Germany and The Netherlands have a commanding hold over the competition, with Germany taking the first two places and the next three going to The Netherlands. The current leaders are:

- | | | |
|---|---|--------|
| 1 | Michael Gromøller and Helmut Hausler | 61.41% |
| 2 | Thomas Gotard and Marie Eggeling | 61.35% |
| 3 | Hans Kreuning and Rob van den Bergh | 60.92% |

Do not think because you are not in the top twenty there is no hope. After the first stanza, Alan and Jette Bailey were languishing in 110th place with less than 49%. Now they lie in 14th position with 58.37%. Anything is possible.

Please remember that you must alert all conventional bids; we would hate for you to lose any match points by failing to do so!

Social Program

Do not forget to sign up for any of the social events; On Friday there is the choice of three excursions – A Catamaran Trip, A Tour of the South West of the island or a Levada Walk. Full details of these are on page 6.

Tickets for the Closing Dinner on Sunday 10th November are also available.

Please visit the Welcome Desk to purchase tickets or for more information.

This morning at 10.30, Mark Horton will conduct his 'Mark Your Card' to discuss the second session of the Open Pairs in Selvagens 1.

After this auction, West led the ♥10 as instructed by his partner's double. Declarer can draw trumps and knock out the ♠K for 12 tricks. All he has to worry about is the location of the ♦Q.

At the table, declarer played a diamond from dummy to the ace, followed by the J♦ and the queen obligingly popped up on his left. Contract made.

Why did declarer finesse through West? During the auction, East had considered their bid before passing 1♠ and had subsequently doubled the cue-bid of 4♥. Had declarer been left to his own devices, he may well have played a diamond to the king and then take the diamond finesse towards the ♦A J 10. This feels somehow more natural and also guards against a 4-1 break. However, South reasoned that as East had doubled the heart cue-bid, they would have more hearts than West. Therefore West may well have more diamonds than East. I am sure many will have failed to locate the queen on this hand.

East led the ♥J, taken by the king in dummy and declarer took a diamond finesse losing to East's jack. East returned a small heart which his partner won with the queen. East then returned the ♦K (bizarrely—but it made more sense when later he tried to trump the third diamond). Declarer now played the ♠Q and ♠J, both ducked and cashed the ♥A before running his three diamond winners. West threw a spade and two clubs. East discarded a heart and then a club, keeping an entry to his partner's ♠A. Dummy threw a club.

The distribution is likely to be 4-3 in both black suits which after the discards, leaves the clubs split 2-2. Taking the losing club finesse could cost two tricks. So, declarer duly played a club to the ace in dummy and a club back to his hand, felling East's queen and clocked up 11 tricks for a good board.

Generally speaking, if declarer has no clues from the bidding or play, which way to take the two-way finesse is always a bit of a conundrum. There are several theories:

You finesse against the opponent you least like the look of.

This is my personal theory - if you are right-handed you finesse towards dummy and if you are left handed you finesse towards declarer.

An un-named failed statistician from the bulletin room claims if there is nothing else to go on, assume the person on lead has the queen.

The Waiting Game

Mark Horton

If you are familiar with the works of Shakespeare, you may recall a line from the Scottish play (it's considered bad luck to say Macbeth, and the way the lifts are working I'm not going to tempt fate) where Lady Macbeth says 'Stand not upon the order of your going, but go at once'. Which basically means that you don't need to wait for someone to give you an order before you do something.

English star Justin Hackett, here in Madeira with his wife Barbara (adding two more names to the list of World Champions who have played in the Madeira Festival) told me about this amuse bouche from the first weekend of England's Premier League. (That's the bridge version, not followed by quite so many spectators as the one where 22 grown men kick around something resembling an inflated pigs bladder).

You or I might overcall 4♠, but Andrew (Tosh) McIntosh thought there was every chance that E/W might end up in no-trumps, in which case he might have an unpleasant surprise for declarer and decided to play a waiting game. Tosh hails from North of the border and is no doubt familiar with the Scottish play, but as another famous Scotsman once wrote, 'the best laid schemes often go awry' when West saw no point in doing anything other than passing!

2♦ made on the nose for +90.

In the Open Room Ed Jones and Tom Paske reached the excellent 4♠, which made in comfort for an 11 IMP pick up to Mossop, sealing an excellent win, 68-24 IMPs, 18.55-1.45 VP.

As a consolation, Tosh can now add his name to the list of players who have passed holding a massive spade suit, two of the most famous being John Collings and Brian Senior, who both passed holding a solid ten-card suit, only to discover when the other three players passed that their partner's had seen fit to pass holding just the three missing aces.

The play's the thing wherein I'll catch the conscience of the king.

XXII Madeira Bridge Festival

Optional Friday Excursions 8th November

Option A: Catamaran (limited availability)
coach leaves hotel 9:30

A relaxing trip along the south coast of Madeira, with a good chance of spotting whales and dolphins in all their magnificence and in their natural habitat. (3 hours) Returning to hotel at 13.30

Option B: South-West Tour (lunch included)
coach leaves hotel 10:00

Ribeira Brava – our first stop will be at this beautiful town on the South coast, named for the wild river which flows through it. The town boasts cafes, promenades, a market, a church and a fort.

Paúl do Mar – a fishing village known for its excellent surfing conditions and beautiful sunsets. Soon afterwards we stop at Jardim do Mar, a pretty seaside village surrounded by cliffs and adorned by the colourful gardens of its small houses.

Calheta – a charming place with beautiful scenery and one of the few sandy beaches on the island

Ponta de Sol – a picturesque village on the sea, where we will break for lunch.

On the return journey we stop at Cabo Girão, the highest sea cliff in Europe, 580 metres high and famous for its suspended glass platform. Arrive back at the hotel at 16:00.

Option C: Levada Walk 'Sugar Route'
(lunch included) coach leaves hotel 09:00

Ribeira Brava – our first stop will be at this beautiful town on the South coast, named for the wild river which flows through it. The town boasts cafes, promenades, a market, a church and a fort.

The walk along the Levada Nova begins in Tabua, a village near Ribeira Brava. It is a pleasant walk, within most people's capabilities, and offers a view of this part of the island from a different perspective.

The beautiful landscapes are one of the main features of this walk. Between valleys and mountains, walkers can delight in the magnificent views over the villages. Small towns and plantations make up a unique landscape. Lunch at Ponta do Sol, a picturesque seaside village.

On the return journey we stop at Cabo Girão, the highest sea cliff in Europe, 580 metres high and famous for its suspended glass platform. Arrive back at the hotel at 16:00.

Please bring good walking shoes or boots, a warm coat (in case of low temperatures in the mountains) and a bottle of water. Grade: easy; Distance: 6.2 km; Duration: approximately 2½ hours.

Defend This Hand With Me

Mark Horton

Over the years, I have developed a penchant for writing in the style of Terence Reese. One of his specialities was to use an 'over my shoulder' style for the presentation of declarer play problems. If he had extended this to defensive play this deal from the first round of the Open Pairs where one of the defenders found a brilliant way to deflect declarer would surely have been included:

The Illusionist

Playing in one of the best Festivals in the world on the sun-drenched island of Madeira I pickup this modest collection during the first session of the Open Pairs:

Board 23. Dealer South. All Vul.

♠ K6432
♥ J104
♦ 5
♣ KQ92

An uncomplicated auction sees me on lead against 4♥:

West	North	East	South
Fischer	Di Sacco	Saurer	Castellani
-	-	-	3♦
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
3♥	Pass	4♥	All Pass

Hoping for a ruff I lead the ♦5 and dummy is revealed:

♠ K6432
♥ J104
♦ 5
♣ KQ92

♠ AQ97
♥ AQ98
♦ A32
♣ 75

Declarer wins with dummy's ace and plays the ♠7. When my partner follows with the ♠8 she plays the ♠J. Declarer would only play like this with a doubleton jack and looking at my spot cards in the suit it is clear that winning with the king will leave declarer with three tricks in spades, so hoping to create an illusion I follow in tempo with the ♠4. Declarer crosses to hand with the ♥A and continues with the ♠A followed by the seven. My partner, who has contributed the ♠10 and ♥5 now matches that with the ♥7. Declarer overruffs with the ♥K and goes through the motions, but cannot arrive at more than nine tricks.

This was the full deal:

Board 23. Dealer South. All Vul.

♠ K6432
♥ J104
♦ 5
♣ KQ92

♠ J5
♥ K632
♦ 987
♣ A843

♠ AQ97
♥ AQ98
♦ A32
♣ 75

♠ 108
♥ 75
♦ KQJ1064
♣ J106

Post Mortem

If North takes the ♠K then declarer will have an easy route to ten tricks, as in due course the spade suit will take care of the losing diamonds.

There were ways in which declarer might have prevailed; one is to draw trumps after the second round of spades. Declarer then plays a third spade expecting the king to appear from South but when South discards, she can pitch a diamond when the defenders take only three tricks.

This brilliant defence netted EW 175/11.

Predictions - Four For The Price of Three

Mark Horton

Today I'm discussing four deals - there is no extra charge for the bonus deal.

Board 4. Dealer West. All Vul.

♦ 10 9 6 5
♣ J 8 5 2
♠ Q 9		♠ K 6 2

West	North	East	South
1NT	Pass	2♦*	Pass
2♥	Pass	3♣	Pass
3♥	Pass	4♦*	All Pass
4♥	All Pass
2♦	Transfer
4♦	Cue-bid

There's a mildly optimistic auction to the heart game.

Your task is to take eleven tricks on the lead of the ♦10.

If East is the declarer and South leads the ♣10 your task might be a little easier!

I predict only a handful will take eleven tricks.

Board 5. Dealer North. N/S Vul.

♠ J 8 3 2
♥ A 2
♦ Q 10 8 6
♣ J 10 8
♠ A K 9		♠ Q 7 6 5
♥ K 7 6 4		♥ 10 8
♦ K J 5		♦ A 7 4 3 2
♣ A K 2		♣ Q 9
	♠ 10 4
	♥ Q J 9 5 3
	♣ 7 6 5 4 3

West	North	East	South
2NT	Pass	3♣*	Pass
3♦*	Pass	3♥*	Pass
3NT	All Pass
3♣	Puppet Stayman
3♦	At least one major
3♥	Spades

That's one of many possible auctions to 3NT.

I picked this deal because it illustrates perfectly that Deep Finesse plays double dummy. It says that you can take ten tricks in 3NT, but how are you going to manage that if North leads a club?

If you want to know the answer, come to this morning's seminar at 10.30!

I'm going all in by suggesting that unless North leads a diamond, no-one will make ten tricks!

Board 18. Dealer East. N/S Vul.

♠ Q J 2
♥ A J 5
♦ A 10 2
♣ 9 8 3 2
♠ K 9 8 7 5		♠ 6 4 3
♥ 9 7 3		♥ 10 8
♦ K 9		♦ 6 5 4 3
♣ A 10 6		♣ Q J 5 4
	♠ A 10
	♥ K Q 6 4 2
	♦ Q J 8 7
	♣ K 7

I picked this deal to illustrate one of my pet theories, even though it is unlikely to play a part this time unless the bidding happens to go 1♥-3NT. Were East to be on lead against 3NT you might decide to try a club - risky but not ridiculous. I would go for the ♣5/4, because every time I lead the queen from this type of combination dummy comes down with A/K10x and declarer has the other honour so you lose three tricks. If you lead a low card declarer might not put in the ten, especially holding ♣H8x. Here the low club lead gives the defenders four tricks.

I won't be surprised to find that no-one holds declarer to nine tricks.

–	–	–	1♠
Pass	2♣	2♥	2♠
3♥	4♣	Pass	4♦
Pass	4♥*	Pass	5♣
Pass	6♣	All Pass

This is a tough hand to predict - especially in the bidding!

But let's imagine you reach 6♣ and East leads the ♥K. You win with the ace and play a spade to the king and ace. Now you have enough entries to establish and enjoy the spades, getting up to 12 tricks without needing to locate the ♦Q.

My prediction: 3 pairs will bid and make 6♣.

Meet Mr Madeira

Mark Horton

If you check the results of the previous 21 Festivals in the Hall of Fame section of the brilliant web site <https://www.bridge-madeira.com/hall-of-fame-pdf/> you will notice that several names appear more than once. One of them belongs to the legendary Carlos Luiz. Here is an example of why he does so well from the first session of the Open Pairs:

West started with a top spade and then switched to the ♦J. Declarer won in hand, ruffed a spade with the ♥7 and played the ♥5. When East followed with the four, declarer played the ♥6! He then advanced the ♠Q, forcing West to cover and pinning East's jack. That was eleven tricks and 171/15.

How did declarer find his remarkable play in the trump suit?

With West marked with the ♠AK and ♦J East needed all the missing points to get up to 12.

The PredictoMeter

After penning yesterday's article as to how successful Mark's fortune telling was, I mentioned our new game of lift prediction. Immediately it had gone to print, signs appeared in front of the lift 'Maintenance Works'. I can now reveal that a new possibility has occurred and it is my current 'Nap' selection (see Laura's article from last year for definition) is the 'Double Full House', this is where the lift rises to the top floor whilst the indicator panels flash random numbers and it then immediately sinks down to the bottom of the hotel and makes various grunting noises before soaring back to the top and then painstakingly opening its doors to let you out and recover from a bout of extreme claustrophobia. I am inclined to say that the sign 'Maintenance Works' was not a correct statement. Hopefully Mark's predictions for the first round of the Open Pairs is more accurate.

On Board 4 Mark predicted that over 50% would reach 6♠, a few try 6NT and at least one pair would overstretch into 7♠.

At 94 tables over 50% bid the small spade slam, 13 aimed too high with a grand slam and three went for the no-trump slam. 27 decided to rest below the six-level and there was a smattering of 6♥. Of the pairs who bid 6♠, six of them failed, which with the trumps splitting 2-2 seems to be careless. Overall a very accurate prediction.

Here, Mark's prediction was over 50% to reach 4♥ and of those 50% to make after a spade lead.

74 pairs reached the 4♥ contract but only four of them succeeded in their contract. In fact there were only ten plus scores for N/S. The majority of pairs obviously found the contract more difficult than expected as even the four pairs who played in 3♥ failed by one trick but that netted 138/48 matchpoints and 47 pairs in 4♥ failed by two tricks. Mark was correct in suggesting the contract of 4♥ would be popular but the field disappointed him in the play of the cards.

For his third proposition he suggested less than half the field would reach 6♣.

One cannot say that in any way was he incorrect but only one pair managed to reach the dizzy height of the slam – congratulations to Ekenberg and Hult. One other pair played in the club game whilst aside from the eight N/S played in 2♥ doubled everyone else was playing 3NT.

Certainly a superior result than the previous day. Will today's predictions be another improvement?

The World Online

Every bridge player in the world is about to get the chance to become the World Online Champion in a competition that will run from March to November 2020 and win at least US$100,000.

A New Bridge Magazine (www.newbridgemag.com) will be publishing all the information next month, but meanwhile the organisers are running a test consisting of two daylong tournaments, one played at IMPs the other at matchpoints.

The Funbridge WBF Robots site - www.funbridge.com - will host both contests on Thursday 12 December 2019.

Entry to the tournaments is free, and the top five players in each of them will win a one-year subscription to Funbridge.

In addition, the next 250 players from each event will win 10 WBF Robot Tournament entries.

WBF Robot Master Points will be awarded and NBO's may decide to offer their own master points.

In addition, Funbridge and the WBF are sponsoring three new IBPA awards for play in online events: Best Declarer Play, Best Defence and Best Bid hand. These awards will carry the same cash value to journalists and players as the regular annual IBPA awards. You can write up your candidate deals yourselves and submit them directly to the editor of the IBPA bulletin at: ibpaeditor@sympatico.ca, or ask a journalist to write up a deal for you.

You can download FUNBRIDGE for free at: www.funbridge.com and follow the instructions there to play or simply to try it for free.

West led a small spade and East put up the jack.

I won with the king and it was obvious that E/W had missed their 4-4 spade fit.

At trick two I tried leading the queen of spades, but West took his ace and helped me out a bit by playing a third round.

I took the ten of spades and advanced a small club, concealing my ace from the opponents. West took his king of clubs and laid down a confident queen of diamonds on the table, so that it made it absolutely plain to his poor partner that he had the jack of diamonds as well.

I took the king in the South hand and now played a fourth round of trumps, East winning with his nine. Since the clubs were not high yet the entry in diamonds must be removed straight away, so East can hardly be blamed for continuing with a diamond.

I thankfully took the trick with the jack, unblocked the ace of clubs and crossed to dummy with my third diamond to enjoy the rest of the clubs. Ten tricks in spades for N/S meant a 96.73% score...
